Treasury Portfolio

The Portfolio's Main Investment Strategy

The portfolio seeks to provide maximum current income consistent with stability of capital.

The portfolio pursues its objective by investing in short-term US Treasury securities paying a fixed, variable or floating interest rate and in repurchase agreements backed by US Treasury securities. The timely payment of principal and interest on these securities is guaranteed by the full faith and credit of the US government. The portfolio may invest in floating and variable rate instruments (obligations that do not bear interest at fixed rates). The portfolio may invest up to 10% of its total assets in other money market mutual funds in accordance with applicable regulations. However, everything the portfolio buys must meet the rules for money market portfolio investments. The Board will provide shareholders with at least 60 days' notice prior to making any changes to the portfolio's policy of investing exclusively in these securities.

While the portfolio's Advisor gives priority to earning income and maintaining the value of the portfolio's principal at $1.00 per share, all money market instruments, including US government obligations, can change in value when interest rates change or an issuer's creditworthiness changes.

The portfolio maintains a dollar-weighted average maturity of 90 days or less. The portfolio is managed in accordance with Rule 2a-7 under the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended.

Portfolio securities are denominated in US dollars and have remaining maturities of 397 days (about 13 months) or less at the time of purchase. The portfolio may also invest in securities that have the effect of reducing their maturities to 397 days or less at the time of purchase.

Principal investments

The portfolio invests in the following types of investments:

- US Treasury obligations, either directly or through repurchase agreements. In a repurchase agreement, the portfolio buys securities at one price with a simultaneous agreement to sell back the securities at a future date at an agreed-upon price.

Income paid on US Treasury securities is usually free from state and local income taxes and, for most portfolio shareholders, the bulk of portfolio distributions will be free from these taxes as well (although not from federal income tax).

Working in consultation with the portfolio managers, a credit team screens potential securities and develops a list of those that the portfolio may buy. The portfolio managers, looking for attractive yield and weighing considerations such as credit quality, economic outlooks and possible interest rate movements, then decide which securities on this list to buy. The portfolio managers may adjust the portfolio's exposure to interest rate risk, typically seeking to take advantage of possible rises in interest rates and to preserve yield when interest rates appear likely to fall.

The Main Risks of Investing in the Portfolio

There are several risk factors that could reduce the yield you get from the portfolio or cause the portfolio's performance to trail that of other investments.

Interest Rate Risk. Money market instruments, like all debt securities, face the risk that the securities will decline in value because of changes in interest rates. Generally, investments subject to interest rate risk will decrease in value when interest rates rise and increase in value when interest rates decline. To minimize such price fluctuations, the portfolio limits the dollar-weighted average maturity of the securities held by the portfolio to 90 days or less. Generally, the price of short-term investments fluctuates less than longer-term investments. Income earned on floating or variable rate securities may vary as interest rates decrease or increase. Because of the portfolio's high credit standards, its yield may be lower than the yields of money funds that do not limit their investments to US Treasury securities.

Market Risk. Although individual securities may outperform the market, the entire market may decline as a result of rising interest rates, regulatory developments or deteriorating economic conditions.

Security Selection Risk. While the portfolio invests in short-term securities, which by their nature are relatively stable investments, the risk remains that the securities in which the portfolio invests will not perform as expected. This could cause the portfolio's returns to lag behind those of similar money market mutual funds.

Repurchase Agreement Risk. A repurchase agreement exposes the portfolio to the risk that the party that sells the securities may default on its obligation to repurchase them. In this circumstance, the portfolio can lose money because:

- it cannot sell the securities at the agreed-upon time and price; or
- the securities lose value before they can be sold.

The portfolio seeks to reduce this risk by monitoring the creditworthiness of the sellers with whom it enters into repurchase agreements. The portfolio also monitors the value of the securities to ensure that they are at least equal to the total amount of the repurchase obligations, including interest and accrued interest.

An investment in the portfolio is not insured or guaranteed by the FDIC or any other government agency. Although the portfolio seeks to preserve the value of your investment at $1.00 per share, this share price isn't guaranteed and you could lose money by investing in the portfolio.

The Portfolio's Performance History

While a portfolio's past performance isn't necessarily a sign of how it will do in the future, it can be valuable for an investor to know.

The bar chart shows how the performance of the portfolio has varied from year to year, which may give some idea of risk. The table shows how the portfolio's returns over different periods average out. The "total return" of a portfolio is the change in the value of an investment in the portfolio over a given period. Average annual returns are calculated by averaging the year-by-year returns of the portfolio over a given period. All figures include the effects of the portfolio's expenses and assume reinvestment of dividends and distributions. As always, past performance is no guarantee of future results.

The 7-day yield, which is often referred to as the "current yield," is the income generated by the portfolio over a seven-day period. This amount is then annualized, which means that we assume the portfolio generates the same income every week for a year. To learn the current yield, investors may call (800) 231-8568.

Investment Class shares commenced operations on May 21, 2007, after the completion of the reorganization of the Treasury Series of Cash Reserve Fund, Inc. into the Treasury Portfolio, and therefore do not have a full calendar year of performance. In the bar chart and the table, the performance figures reflect the historical performance of the portfolio's Institutional Shares, adjusted to reflect the estimated annual operating expenses of Investment Class shares. Although Institutional Shares are not offered in this prospectus, they are invested in the same portfolio and the annual total returns differ to the extent that the classes have different fees and expenses.

How Much Investors Pay

The table below describes the fees and expenses that you may pay if you buy and hold portfolio shares. This information doesn't include any fees that may be charged by your financial advisor.

Fee Table
Shareholder Fees , paid directly from your investment	None
Annual Operating Expenses , deducted from portfolio assets

¹ Restated on an annualized basis to reflect approved fee changes that took place on May 1, 2008.

² "Other Expenses" include an administrative services fee paid to the Advisor in the amount of 0.10%.

³ Through September 14, 2010, the Advisor has contractually agreed to waive all or a portion of its management fee and reimburse or pay operating expenses of the portfolio to the extent necessary to maintain the portfolio's Investment Class total annual operating expenses at 0.67% of average daily net assets, excluding certain expenses such as extraordinary expenses, taxes, brokerage and interest.

Based on the costs above, this example helps you compare the expenses of the share class to those of other mutual funds. This example assumes operating expenses remain the same. It also assumes that you invested $10,000, earned 5% annual returns and reinvested all dividends and distributions and sold your shares at the end of each period. This is only an example; actual expenses will be different.

Other Policies

Although major changes tend to be infrequent, the portfolio's Board could change the portfolio's investment objective without shareholder approval.

This prospectus doesn't tell you about every policy or risk of investing in the portfolio.

If you want more information on the portfolio's allowable securities and investment practices and the characteristics and risks of each one, you may want to request a copy of the Statement of Additional Information (the back cover tells you how to do this).

Keep in mind that there is no assurance that the portfolio will achieve its objective.

A complete list of the portfolio's portfolio holdings is posted as of each month end on or after the 14th day of the following month on www.dws-investments.com (the Web site does not form a part of this prospectus). This posted information generally remains accessible at least until the date on which the portfolio files its Form N-CSR or N-Q with the Securities and Exchange Commission for the period that includes the date as of which the posted information is current. The portfolio may also post on the Web site, on a more frequent basis, a percentage breakdown of the holdings of the portfolio by type of security. The portfolio's Statement of Additional Information includes a description of the portfolio's policies and procedures with respect to the disclosure of the portfolio's portfolio holdings.

Who Manages and Oversees the Portfolio

The investment advisor

Deutsche Investment Management Americas Inc. ("DIMA" or the "Advisor"), with headquarters at 345 Park Avenue, New York, NY 10154, is the investment advisor for the portfolio. Under the oversight of the Board, the Advisor makes investment decisions, buys and sells securities for the portfolio and conducts research that leads to these purchase and sale decisions. The Advisor provides a full range of global investment advisory services to institutional and retail clients.

DWS Investments is part of Deutsche Bank's Asset Management division and, within the US, represents the retail asset management activities of Deutsche Bank AG, Deutsche Bank Trust Company Americas, DIMA and DWS Trust Company.

This well-resourced global investment platform brings together a wide variety of experience and investment insight across industries, regions, asset classes and investing styles.

The Advisor is an indirect, wholly owned subsidiary of Deutsche Bank AG. Deutsche Bank AG is a major global banking institution that is engaged in a wide range of financial services, including investment management, mutual funds, retail, private and commercial banking, investment banking and insurance.

Management Fee. The Advisor receives a management fee from the portfolio. Below is the actual rate paid by the portfolio for the most recent fiscal year, as a percentage of the portfolio's average daily net assets.

Fund Name	Fee Paid
Treasury Portfolio	0.15%

On March 31, 2008, shareholders of Treasury Portfolio approved an amended and restated investment management agreement (an "Amended Management Agreement") with the Advisor. Pursuant to the Amended Management Agreement, the Advisor provides continuous investment management of the assets of the portfolio.

Effective May 1, 2008, Treasury Portfolio pays the Advisor under the Amended Management Agreement a fee, calculated daily and paid monthly, at the annual rate of 0.050% of the portfolio's average daily net assets.

A discussion regarding the basis for the Board's approval of the portfolio's investment management agreement is contained in the most recent shareholder reports for the semiannual period ended September 30 and the annual period ended March 31 (see "Shareholder reports" on the back cover).

Under a separate administrative services agreement between the portfolio and the Advisor, the portfolio pays the Advisor for providing most of the portfolio's administrative services.

The portfolio managers

A group of investment professionals is responsible for the day-to-day management of the portfolio. These investment professionals have a broad range of experience managing money market funds.

Financial Highlights

The financial highlights are designed to help you understand recent financial performance. The figures in the first part of the table are for a single share. The total return figures represent the percentage that an investor in the portfolio would have earned (or lost), assuming all dividends and distributions were reinvested. This information has been audited by Ernst & Young LLP, independent registered public accounting firm, whose report, along with the portfolio's financial statements, is included in the portfolio's annual report (see "Shareholder reports" on the back cover).

Policies You Should Know About

Along with the information on the previous pages, the policies below may affect you as a shareholder. Some of this information, such as the section on distributions and taxes, applies to all investors, including those investing through a financial advisor.

If you are investing through a financial advisor or through a retirement plan, check the materials you received from them about how to buy and sell shares because particular financial advisors or other intermediaries may adopt policies, procedures or limitations that are separate from those described by the portfolio. Please note that a financial advisor may charge fees separate from those charged by the portfolio and may be compensated by the portfolio.

Keep in mind that the information in this prospectus applies only to the shares offered herein. Other share classes are described in separate prospectuses and have different fees, requirements and services.

In order to reduce the amount of mail you receive and to help reduce expenses, we generally send a single copy of any shareholder report and prospectus to each household. If you do not want the mailing of these documents to be combined with those for other members of your household, please contact your financial advisor or call (800) 231-8568.

Financial intermediary support payments

The Advisor, DWS Investments Distributors, Inc. (the “Distributor”) and/or their affiliates may pay additional compensation, out of their own assets and not as an additional charge to the portfolio, to selected financial advisors in connection with the sale and/or distribution of portfolio shares or the retention and/or servicing of fund investors and fund shares (“revenue sharing”). Such revenue sharing payments are in addition to any distribution or service fees payable under any Rule 12b-1 or service plan of the portfolio, any record keeping/sub-transfer agency/networking fees payable by the portfolio (generally through the Distributor or an affiliate) and/or the Distributor to certain financial advisors for performing such services and any sales charge, commissions, non-cash compensation arrangements expressly permitted under applicable rules of the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority or other concessions described in the fee table or elsewhere in this prospectus or the Statement of Additional Information as payable to all financial advisors. For example, the Advisor, the Distributor and/or their affiliates may compensate financial advisors for providing the portfolio with “shelf space” or access to a third party platform or portfolio offering list or other marketing programs, including, without limitation, inclusion of the portfolio on preferred or recommended sales lists, mutual fund “supermarket” platforms and other formal sales programs; granting the Distributor access to the financial advisor’s sales force; granting the Distributor access to the financial advisor’s conferences and meetings; assistance in training and educating the financial advisor’s personnel; and obtaining other forms of marketing support.

The level of revenue sharing payments made to financial advisors may be a fixed fee or based upon one or more of the following factors: gross sales, current assets and/or number of accounts of the portfolio attributable to the financial advisor, the particular portfolio or portfolio type or other measures as agreed to by the Advisor, the Distributor and/or their affiliates and the financial advisors or any combination thereof. The amount of these revenue sharing payments is determined at the discretion of the Advisor, the Distributor and/or their affiliates from time to time, may be substantial, and may be different for different financial advisors based on, for example, the nature of the services provided by the financial advisor.

The Advisor, the Distributor and/or their affiliates currently make revenue sharing payments from their own assets in connection with the sale and/or distribution of DWS Fund shares or the retention and/or servicing of investors and DWS Fund shares to financial advisors in amounts that generally range from .01% up to .50% of assets of the portfolio serviced and maintained by the financial advisor, .10% to .25% of sales of the portfolio attributable to the financial advisor, a flat fee of $13,350 up to $500,000, or any combination thereof. These amounts are subject to change at the discretion of the Advisor, the Distributor and/or their affiliates. Receipt of, or the prospect of receiving, this additional compensation may influence your financial advisor’s recommendation of the portfolio or of any particular share class of the portfolio. You should review your financial advisor’s compensation disclosure and/or talk to your financial advisor to obtain more information on how this compensation may have influenced your financial advisor’s recommendation of the portfolio. Additional information regarding these revenue sharing payments is included in the portfolio's Statement of Additional Information, which is available to you on request at no charge (see the back cover of this prospectus for more information on how to request a copy of the Statement of Additional Information).

The Advisor, the Distributor and/or their affiliates may also make such revenue sharing payments to financial advisors under the terms discussed above in connection with the distribution of both DWS funds and non-DWS funds by financial advisors to retirement plans that obtain record keeping services from ADP, Inc. on the DWS Investments branded retirement plan platform (the "Platform") with the level of revenue sharing payments being based upon sales of both the DWS funds and the non-DWS funds by the financial advisor on the Platform or current assets of both the DWS funds and the non-DWS funds serviced and maintained by the financial advisor on the Platform.

It is likely that broker-dealers that execute portfolio transactions for the portfolio will include firms that also sell shares of the DWS funds to their customers. However, the Advisor will not consider sales of DWS fund shares as a factor in the selection of broker-dealers to execute portfolio transactions for the DWS funds. Accordingly, the Advisor has implemented policies and procedures reasonably designed to prevent its traders from considering sales of DWS fund shares as a factor in the selection of broker-dealers to execute portfolio transactions for the portfolio. In addition, the Advisor, the Distributor and/or their affiliates will not use fund brokerage to pay for their obligation to provide additional compensation to financial advisors as described above.

Rule 12b-1 Plan

The portfolio has adopted a plan under Rule 12b-1 that authorizes the payment of an annual distribution/service fee, payable monthly, of 0.25% of the portfolio's Investment Class average daily net assets. Because 12b-1 fees are paid out of the portfolio's attributable to a particular share class assets on an ongoing basis, they will, over time, increase the cost of an investment and may cost more than paying other types of sales charges.

Policies about transactions

To help the government fight the funding of terrorism and money laundering activities, federal law requires all financial institutions to obtain, verify and record information that identifies each person who opens an account. What this means to you: When you open an account, we will ask for your name, address, date of birth and other information that will allow us to identify you. Some or all of this information will be used to verify the identity of all persons opening an account.

We might request additional information about you (which may include certain documents, such as articles of incorporation for companies) to help us verify your identity and, in some cases, the information and/or documents may be required to conduct the verification. The information and documents will be used solely to verify your identity.

We will attempt to collect any missing required and requested information by contacting you or your financial advisor. If we are unable to obtain this information within the time frames established by the portfolio, then we may reject your application and order.

The portfolio will not invest your purchase until all required and requested identification information has been provided and your application has been submitted in "good order." After we receive all the information, your application is deemed to be in good order and we accept your purchase, you will receive the net asset value per share next calculated.

If we are unable to verify your identity within time frames established by the portfolio, after a reasonable effort to do so, you will receive written notification.

With certain limited exceptions, only US residents may invest in the portfolio.

Because orders placed through a financial advisor must be forwarded to the transfer agent before they can be processed, you'll need to allow extra time. Your financial advisor should be able to tell you approximately when your order will be processed. It is the responsibility of your financial advisor to forward your order to the transfer agent in a timely manner.

Sub-Minimum Balances. The portfolio may close your account and send you the proceeds if your balance falls below $500; we will give you 60 days' notice so you can either increase your balance or close your account (this policy doesn't apply to most retirement accounts, investors in certain fee-based and wrap programs offered through certain financial intermediaries approved by the Advisor or if you have an automatic investment plan).

Transaction Processing. Orders for the purchase of shares by wire transfer will normally be effective at the share price next computed after receipt of the wire transfer of the amount to be invested. If a wire transfer purchase order is received in good order before 4:00 p.m. Eastern time, it will normally receive the dividend for that day.

Shareholders known to the portfolio may notify the Service Center in advance of their wire transfer purchase by calling the Service Center prior to the 4:00 p.m. Eastern time cut-off time and providing the amount of the order. The investor will receive a confirmation number for the trade. If the portfolio receives the wire transfer before the close of the Federal Funds wire system, the trade will be entitled to that day's dividend. If the portfolio does not receive the wire transfer by the close of the Federal Funds wire system, the trade may not receive the dividend for that day and, depending upon the circumstances, the trade may receive the dividend for the following business day or may be canceled or rejected and, in any case, the investor may be charged for any losses or fees that result, which may be paid by deductions from their account or otherwise. The portfolio's Distributor may refuse to allow any investor to trade with the portfolio in this manner and may require that the wire transfer of purchase proceeds be received before the trade is considered in good order.

Investments by check will be effective on the business day following receipt and will earn dividends the following business day. If you pay for shares by check and the check fails to clear, we have the right to cancel your order, hold you liable or charge you or your account for any losses or fees the portfolio or its agents have incurred.

Please contact your financial advisor for wire instructions and purchase orders.

Orders processed through dealers or other financial services firms via Fund/SERV will be effected as of the 5:00 p.m. Eastern time net asset value effective on the day the order is received. Purchases processed via Fund/SERV will begin earning dividends on the day a portfolio receives the payment (typically the next business day). For redemptions processed via Fund/SERV, you generally will receive dividends accrued up to, but not including, the business day that payment for your shares is made.

When selling shares, shareholders generally receive dividends up to, but not including, the business day following the day on which the shares were sold. To sell shares, you must state whether you would like to receive the proceeds by wire or check.

In order to receive proceeds by wire, contact the Service Center before 4:00 p.m. Eastern time. After you inform the Service Center of the amount of your redemption, you will receive a trade confirmation number. If the portfolio receives a sell request before 4:00 p.m. Eastern time and the request calls for proceeds to be sent out by wire, the proceeds will normally be wired on the same day. However, the shares sold will not earn that day's dividend.

As noted elsewhere in the prospectus, proceeds of a redemption may be delayed. The ability to receive "same day" wire redemption proceeds can be affected by a variety of circumstances including the time that the request is made, the level of redemption requests and purchase orders and general market conditions. Requests for same day wire that are received earlier in the day will be given priority over requests received later in the day in the event that it is necessary to limit the amount of same day wire redemptions.

Checkwriting enables you to sell shares of the portfolio by writing a check. Your investment keeps earning dividends until your check clears. Please note that we will not accept checks for less than $100. Please note that you should not write checks for more than $5,000,000. Note as well that we can't honor any check larger than your balance at the time the check is presented to us. It is not a good idea to close out an account using a check because the account balance could change between the time you write the check and the time it is processed. Please keep in mind that if you make a purchase by check and that check has not yet cleared, those funds will not be available for immediate redemption.

The portfolio accepts Automated Clearing House (“ACH”) debit entries for accounts that have elected the checkwriting redemption privilege. Upon receipt of an ACH debit entry referencing your account number you authorize us to redeem shares in your account to pay the entry to the third party originating the debit. Your portfolio account statement will show all ACH debit entries in your account. In case of errors or questions about your transactions or pre-authorized transfers please contact your financial advisor as soon as possible if you believe your statement reflects an improper charge or if you need more information about an ACH debit entry transaction. Your financial advisor must contact the Shareholder Service Agent within sixty (60) days of the portfolio sending you the first portfolio account statement on which an improper charge appears.

The portfolio does not issue share certificates.

The portfolio accepts payment for shares only in US dollars by check drawn on a US bank, bank or Federal Funds wire transfer or by electronic bank transfer. Please note that the portfolio does not accept payment in the following forms: cash, money orders, traveler’s checks, starter checks, checks drawn on foreign banks or checks issued by credit card companies or Internet-based companies. In addition, the portfolio generally does not accept third party checks. A third party check is any check not made payable directly to DWS Investments, except for any check payable to you from one of your other DWS accounts. Under certain circumstances, the portfolio may accept a third party check (i) for retirement plan contributions, asset transfers and rollovers, (ii) as contributions into Uniform Gift to Minors Act/Uniform Transfers to Minors Act accounts, (iii) payable from acceptable US and state government agencies, and (iv) from other DWS funds (such as a redemption or dividend check) for investment only in a similarly registered account. Subject to the foregoing, checks should normally be payable to DWS Investments and drawn by you or a financial institution on your behalf with your name or account number included with the check.

Signature Guarantee. When you want to sell more than $100,000 worth of shares or send proceeds to a third party or to a new address, you'll usually need to place your order in writing and include a signature guarantee. However, if you want money wired to a bank account that is already on file with us, you don't need a signature guarantee. Also, generally you don't need a signature guarantee for an exchange, although we may require one in certain other circumstances.

A signature guarantee is simply a certification of your signature — a valuable safeguard against fraud. You can get a signature guarantee from an eligible guarantor institution, including commercial banks, savings and loans, trust companies, credit unions, member firms of a national stock exchange or any member or participant of an approved signature guarantor program. Note that you can't get a signature guarantee from a notary public and we must be provided the original guarantee.

Selling shares of trust accounts and business or organization accounts may require additional documentation. Please call (800) 231-8568 or contact your financial advisor for more information.

Money from shares you sell is normally sent out within one business day of when your order is processed (not when it is received). There are circumstances when it could be longer, including, but not limited to, when you are selling shares you bought recently by check or ACH (the funds will be placed under a 10 calendar day hold to ensure good funds) or when unusual circumstances prompt the SEC to allow further delays. Certain expedited redemption processes (e.g., redemption proceeds by wire) may also be delayed or unavailable when you are selling shares recently purchased or in the event of the closing of the Federal Reserve wire payment system. The portfolio reserves the right to suspend or postpone redemptions as permitted pursuant to Section 22(e) of the Investment Company Act of 1940. Generally, those circumstances are when 1) the New York Stock Exchange is closed other than customary weekend or holiday closings; 2) trading on the New York Stock Exchange is restricted; 3) an emergency exists which makes the disposal of securities owned by the portfolio or the fair determination of the value of the portfolio's net assets not reasonably practicable; or 4) the SEC, by order, permits the suspension of the right of redemption. Redemption payments by wire may also be delayed in the event of a non-routine closure of the Federal Reserve wire payment system. For additional rights reserved by the portfolio, please see "Other rights we reserve."

You may obtain additional information about other ways to sell your shares by contacting your financial advisor.

If your shares are registered directly with the portfolio's transfer agent, you can sell them by sending a written request (with a signature guarantee) to:

Short-Term Trading. Since money market funds hold short-term instruments and are intended to provide liquidity to shareholders, the Advisor does not monitor or limit short-term or excessive trading activity in the portfolio and, accordingly, the Board of the portfolio has not approved any policies and procedures designed to limit this activity. However, the portfolio reserves the right to and may reject or cancel a purchase or exchange order into the portfolio for any reason, including if, in the opinion of the Advisor, there appears to be a pattern of short-term or excessive trading by an investor in another DWS fund.

How the portfolio calculates share price

To calculate net asset value, or NAV, each share class uses the following equation:

The price at which you buy and sell shares is based on the NAV per share next calculated after the order is received by the transfer agent.

In valuing securities, we typically use amortized cost (the method used by most money market funds) to account for any premiums or discounts above or below the face value of any securities the portfolio buys, and round the per share NAV to the nearest whole cent.

The portfolio is open for business each day the New York Stock Exchange (the “Exchange”) is open. Normally, the portfolio calculates its share price once every business day as of the close of regular trading on the Exchange (typically 4:00 p.m. Eastern time, but sometimes earlier, as in the case of scheduled half-day trading or unscheduled suspensions of trading). In the event of scheduled partial day trading or unscheduled suspensions of trading on the Exchange, the calculation of share price shall be as of the close of trading on the Exchange. In such instances, the latest time for receipt of wire purchase transactions entitled to receive same day dividend treatment and for receipt of redemption orders for same day wire transfer of proceeds will be the earlier of (a) 4:00 p.m. Eastern time or (b) the early closing time of the Exchange. The portfolio seeks to maintain a stable $1.00 share price.

The portfolio may, but is not required to, accept certain types of purchase and redemption orders (not including exchanges) on days that the Exchange is closed, or beyond an Exchange early closing time (referred to as a “Limited Trading Period”) if: (a) the Federal Reserve system is open, (b) the primary trading markets for the portfolio’s portfolio instruments are open and (c) the Advisor believes there will be adequate liquidity in the short-term markets. During any such Limited Trading Period, the portfolio will only accept purchase orders by wire with advance telephone notification and telephone redemption orders with proceeds to be sent by wire, ACH or check and will not accept orders by any other means. (Automated Telephone Line orders are not permitted.) If redemption proceeds are requested by ACH or check, the transmission of the ACH payment or the mailing of the check, as the case may be, will be delayed by at least one business day in comparison to normal trading periods. Orders submitted by other means will be processed on the next day that the Exchange is open. The calculation of share price will be as set forth in the prospectus for normal trading days. Orders must be submitted by the cut-off times for receipt of wire purchases entitled to that day’s dividend and for receipt of telephone redemption orders for same day wire transfer, which will be the earlier of: (a) the times set forth in the prospectus for normal trading days or (b) such earlier times that the portfolio determines based on the criteria described above. If redemption proceeds are requested by ACH or check, orders must be received prior to the calculation of share price. Please call (877) 237-1131 or visit our Web site at www.moneyfunds.deam-us.db.com for additional information about whether the portfolio will be open for business on a particular day. Information concerning the intention of the portfolio to be open for a Limited Trading Period will be available at least one business day prior to the applicable day that the Exchange is closed or is closing early in the case of scheduled closings and as soon as practical in the case of unscheduled closings.

Other rights we reserve

You should be aware that we may do any of the following:

- withdraw or suspend the offering of shares at any time
- withhold a portion of your distributions and redemption proceeds for federal income tax purposes if we have been notified by the IRS that you are subject to backup withholding or if you fail to provide us with the correct taxpayer ID number and certain certifications including certification that you are not subject to backup withholding
- reject a new account application if you don't provide any required or requested identifying information, or for any other reason
- refuse, cancel, limit or rescind any purchase order, without prior notice; freeze any account (meaning you will not be able to purchase portfolio shares in your account); suspend account services; and/or involuntarily redeem your account if we think that the account is being used for fraudulent or illegal purposes; one or more of these actions will be taken when, at our sole discretion, they are deemed to be in the portfolio's best interests or when the portfolio is requested or compelled to do so by governmental authority or by applicable law
- close and liquidate your account if we are unable to verify your identity, or for other reasons; if we decide to close your account, your portfolio shares will be redeemed at the net asset value per share next calculated after we determine to close your account (less applicable redemption fee, if any); you may recognize a gain or loss on the redemption of your portfolio shares and you may incur a tax liability
- change, add or withdraw various services, fees and account policies (for example, we may adjust the portfolio's investment minimums at any time). All orders to purchase shares of a portfolio are subject to acceptance and are not binding until confirmed or accepted in writing

Understanding Distributions and Taxes

The portfolio intends to distribute to its shareholders virtually all of its net earnings. The portfolio can earn money in two ways: by receiving interest, dividends or other income from securities it holds and by selling securities for more than it paid for them. (The portfolio's earnings are separate from any gains or losses stemming from your own purchase and sale of shares.) The portfolio may not always pay a dividend or distribution for a given period.

The portfolio's income dividends are declared daily and paid monthly to shareholders. The portfolio may take into account capital gains and losses in its daily dividend declarations. The portfolio may make additional distributions for tax purposes if necessary.

Dividends or distributions declared and payable to shareholders of record in the last quarter of a given calendar year are treated for federal income tax purposes as if they were received on December 31 of that year, provided such dividends or distributions are paid by the end of the following January.

You can choose how to receive your dividends and distributions. You can have them all automatically reinvested in portfolio shares (at NAV), all deposited directly to your bank account or all sent to you by check, have one type reinvested and the other sent to you by check or have them invested in a different fund. Tell us your preference on your application. If you don't indicate a preference, your dividends and distributions will all be reinvested.

Because each shareholder's tax situation is unique, ask your tax professional about the tax consequences of your investments, including any state and local tax consequences.

Distributions are treated the same for federal income tax purposes whether you receive them in cash or reinvest them in additional shares. For federal income tax purposes, an exchange is treated the same as a sale.

Because the portfolio seeks to maintain a stable share price, you are unlikely to have capital gains or losses when you sell portfolio shares.

For federal income tax purposes, distributions of net investment income are taxable as ordinary income. The portfolio does not expect to make distributions that are eligible for taxation as long-term capital gains or as qualified dividend income.

For most shareholders, a portion of the dividends from the portfolio is generally exempt from state and local income taxes. However, a portion of the portfolio's dividends may be taxable as ordinary income if it came from investments in taxable securities, tax-exempt market discount bonds, or as the result of short or long-term capital gains.

Your portfolio will send you detailed federal income tax information every January. These statements tell you the amount and the federal income tax classification of any dividends or distributions you received. They also have certain details on your purchases and sales of shares.

The above discussion is applicable to shareholders who are US persons. If you are a non-US person, please consult your own tax advisor with respect to the US tax consequences to you of an investment in the portfolio.

Hypothetical Expense Summary

Using the annual portfolio operating expense ratios presented in the fee tables in the portfolio prospectus, the Hypothetical Expense Summary shows the estimated fees and expenses, in actual dollars, that would be charged on a hypothetical investment of $10,000 in the portfolio held for the next 10 years and the impact of such fees and expenses on portfolio returns for each year and cumulatively, assuming a 5% return for each year. The tables also assume that all dividends and distributions are reinvested and that, where applicable, Class B shares convert to Class A shares after six years. The annual portfolio expense ratios shown are net of any contractual fee waivers or expense reimbursements, if any, for the period of the contractual commitment. The tables reflect the maximum initial sales charge, if any, but do not reflect any contingent deferred sales charge or redemption fees, if any, which may be payable upon redemption. If contingent deferred sales charges or redemption fees were shown, the “Hypothetical Year-End Balance After Fees and Expenses” amounts shown would be lower and the “Annual Fees and Expenses” amounts shown would be higher. Also, please note that if you are investing through a third party provider, that provider may have fees and expenses separate from those of the portfolio that are not reflected here. Mutual fund fees and expenses fluctuate over time and actual expenses may be higher or lower than those shown.

The Hypothetical Expense Summary should not be used or construed as an offer to sell, a solicitation of an offer to buy or a recommendation or endorsement of any specific mutual fund. You should carefully review the portfolio’s prospectus to consider the investment objectives, risks, expenses and charges of the portfolio prior to investing.
